The Perfect Patient Experience: Personalized Prevention, Wellbeing, and Longevity

Dirk-Rolf Gieselmann, Senator Oral Health Foundation

Creating a personalized prevention experience for your patients is the key to state-of-the-art patient-centric communication. Today's new generation of health-conscious, internet-savvy patients expect much more from their dentist and dental team than in the past. Maintaining their own health is a top priority, and personalized prevention, longevity, and wellness are key factors in this.

This presents a real opportunity for practice teams, as this innovative type of diagnostic approach enables completely new, individualized therapy concepts in the field of preventive medicine. Here, prevention becomes a tangible experience. Patients appreciate this; it is important to them to be seen and treated as human beings.

Why are oral Biomarkers used in „Space Science“? HOW does it change the patient centric communication and the perception of the importance of LONGEVITY DENTISTRY?

Prevention, longevity, and wellness begin in the mouth and have an impact on the entire body. This presentation will reveal new horizons and perspectives for every practice.

ONE MEDICINE – Elevating Dentistry to an Oral- Systemic Health Experience

Dr. Miguel Stanley, White Clinic Lisbon

Dr. Miguel Stanley is the clinical director of the White Clinic, based in Lisbon, Portugal, which was founded 20 years ago. As a passionate advocate of high-quality dentistry, he and his interdisciplinary team focus on restoring smiles. To this end, he uses state-of-the-art technologies - coupled with a strong sense of ethics and minimal invasiveness - to better protect patients. For this reason, he has developed the “One Medicine” diagnostic and treatment philosophy, which focuses on one of the biggest topics and potentials in oral-systemic dentistry. The presentation provides a comprehensive overview of “Next Generation Oral-Systemic Medicine”, implantology, cosmetic dentistry, and functional occlusion.
